DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is in response to Applicant's application of December 05, 2001, which claims the benefit of 60/254,202 filed December 08, 2000. Claims 1-28 are pending and are presented to be examined upon their merits. Claims 1, 14 and 27 are independent claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. Claims 1-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DeFrancesco et al (US Patent No. 6,587,841, hereinafter DeFrancesco) in view of

Art Unit: 3693

Culhane (US Patent No. 6,513,018) and further in view of Lent (US Patent No. 6,324,524). In reference to claims 1, 14 and 27, DeFrancesco teaches a method, system and computer system and interface for generation of enhanced data to evaluate a proposed borrower, comprising the steps of:

- a. obtaining from said borrower a first set of information, said first set of information including identification information to identify said borrower to a set of information sources (col.1, lines 18-26);
- b. communicating a request to one or more recipient financial information sources, wherein each of said recipient information sources is contained within said set of information sources, wherein said recipient information sources comprise one or more credit bureaus and one or more of a plurality of banks, and one or more government entities, and wherein said request includes identification information identifying said borrower to the one or more recipient information sources receiving said request (col. 1, lines 26-31);
- c. receiving a second set of information from one or more of said recipient information sources; automatically generating a consolidated report based upon said second set of information (col.5, lines 15-25).

5. DeFrancesco fails to teach the method, system and computer system and interface wherein at least one of said recipient financial information sources utilizes a communication buffer so that the request is not communicated directly to said at least one recipient financial information source in association with which the communication buffer is utilized. Lent teaches the method, system and computer system and interface wherein at least one of said recipient financial information sources utilizes a communication buffer so that the request is not communicated directly to said at least one recipient financial information source in association with which the communication buffer is utilized (col. 4, lines 4-18).

6. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have at least one of said recipient financial information sources utilize a communication buffer so that the request is not communicated directly to said at least one recipient financial information source in association with which the communication buffer is utilized and to modify DeFrancesco because such a modification would allow DeFrancesco to shield the identity of the client using the buffer.

7. DeFrancesco fails to teach the method, system and computer system and interface determining whether to loan money to the borrower based upon the consolidated report. Duhon teaches the method, system and computer system and interface determining whether to loan money to the borrower based upon the consolidated report (col. 6, lines 38-50; col. 9, lines 1-55; col. 11, lines 22-50).

8. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to determine whether to loan money to the borrower based upon the consolidated report and to modify DeFrancesco because such a modification would allow DeFrancesco to target potential clients and present them with offers for loan opportunities.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

9. In reference to claim 2, Duhon teaches the method wherein said step of determining is performed by one or more lenders and further comprising the steps of communicating said consolidated report to said one or more lenders (col. 9, lines 1-55; col. 11, lines 22-50).

10. In reference to claims 3-5 and claims 8-10, Duhon discloses the collection of information from various sources including: information such as social security numbers, electronic signatures, tax information, bank account information, earning information and bank deposit histories as is common in the art of financial transactions (col. 6, lines 10-50).

11. In reference to claims 6 and 11, Duhon teaches communicating, formatting and authorization of information according to certain requirements (col. 4, line 64 – col. 5, line 10; col. 5, lines 50-65).

Art Unit: 3693

12. In reference to claims 7 and 13, Lent discloses communicating a request comprising a communication through an intermediate computer in order to provide a secure interface to the one or more recipient financial information sources (col. 4, lines 4-18) and wherein a consolidated report comprises a confirmation code (col. 10, lines 54-67; col. 11, lines 1-36).
